

FUTURE ALLIES
Developing tomorrow's NDIS Allied Health professionals

About The Project

Future Allies aims to improve the way we deliver allied health student placements in the NDIS to make them more sustainable and effective for students, NDIS participants, providers, and Universities.

The Future Allies project was funded by the Australian Government through the NDIS Sector Development Fund. We are immensely grateful to the Department of Social Services for their support throughout this project.

The project was a collaboration between University of Sydney, Flinders University, Monash University, and Curtin University. It brought together leading academics in the field from across these institutions.

To inform the resources develop for this site, research was conducted with NDIS participants, students, and providers across New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia, and Western Australia. You can learn more about the findings of the research in the Future Allies Report

Funders and Supporters

The Project Team

Sue McAllister (University of Sydney) – Lead Investigator

Lindy McAllister (University of Sydney) – Lead Investigator

Angela Lawless (Flinders University) – Lead Investigator

Libby Callaway (Monash University) – Lead Investigator

Chris Brebner (Flinders University) – Lead Investigator

Robyn Johnson (University of Sydney) – Lead Investigator and Project Lead

The project would not have been possible without the contribution of:

Leah Wiseman – Research Manager

Michelle Bellon (Flinders University) – Associate Investigator

Sally Hunter (Curtin University) – Associate Investigator

Prue Morgan (Monash University) – Associate Investigator